The organization of the Democratic party in this State can only be maintained, and its future success secured, through the influence of a vigitant and effective press. The Republicans, by deception and the advocacy of sectional policy, have obtained possession of the Government and all the avenues to public patronage, which they are now using for the purpose of curtailing the liberties of the people and establishing themselves permanently in nower. To the Democracy of the country, and to the people ower. To the Democracy of the country, and to the peo-sis whose constitutional rights are invaded and imperies re can only look for support. This aid should come once, from the prominent members of our party and from the honest masses whose interests are interwoven with our form of government, as handed down to us by the patriots of the revolution, and which we are now battling to uphold. To enable us to contend successfully, let information of the designs of the party now in power, circulate in every neighborhood throughout our borders, and let the Democratic Practice of the Constitution as interpreted by our party and from the honest masses whose interests are interwoven with have recovered and been discharged 937. As frequent inquiries are made of Mr. Reaume, by relatives and friends, with respect to the matter, we subjoin a list of the deaths, as follows:

by relatives a fathers, and it will not be long before the Republican party will be driven into merited obscurity, and the Gorernment once more placed in the hands of those who are capable of administering it with justice, impartiality and for the common interests of all sections.

We should have at least 200 subscribers in every county in the State, and we can have, if the leading members of the party, in each county, will go energetically to work among the people and see that this list is made up. It must be done, if you expect your State paper to be published without loss to the publishers through these hard times. At the meetings to select delegates to the next State Convention, we ask that an energetic committee be appointed for each township, who will at once make it their business to see every Democrat in their township and argue upon them to take the paper. No Democrat can defend his principles unless he reads those papers that advocate them; and the future success of the party depends largely on every Democrat being fully informed of the current political history of the country. Induce the people to read and contribute to the support of your party papers, and all will yet be right.

We shall keep a list of all counties that furnish clubs for the Sentinel, and report at the State Convention, as well as the names of those most active in getting them up.

—Which will be the banner county? Who will be the most active Democrat in getting up clubs.

Specimen copies will be sent when desired.

JOHN C. NEW, Esq.—THE CLERESHIP OF MA-RION COUNTY .- On the 2d instant, John C. New, the gentleman who, for the past five years, has filled so acceptably the office of Clerk of Marion county, retired from his official position, and William Wallace, elected by the people, took his place. Mr. New is an accomplished lawyer, and brought eminent qualifications to the discharge of the duties of his position. Indeed, we have heard members of the bar and Judges of courts, as well as the public generally, remark that dockets were never better kept before, nor the business of the office conducted so methodically, systematically and promptly. We presume that Mr. New returns to the practice of his profession, and undoubtedly he will immediately enter upon an extensive business, taking that front rank in the law to which his talents, acquirements and expe-livered a brief address to the Court, thanking his The Ohio College of Trade, located in Honor and the members of the bar, in pertinent Toledo, under the control of Urish Gregory. terms, for the courtesy uniformly extended to himis, perhaps, without exception, one of the best in- Of his successor, Mr. William Wallace, we have stitutions in the Union for a young man to obtain only to say that we did all we could to defeat him. a practical knowledge of book keeping. Coggswell, after unavailing bravery, had ordered the retreat himself, but, being wounded, was taken. The one boat in the Virginia channel was speedily filled and sunk. A thousand men thronged the further bank. Muskets, coats, and every thing were thrown aside, and all were desperately trying to escape. Hundreds plunged into the rapid current, and the shrieks of the drowning added to the horror of sounds and sights. The enemy kept up their fire from the cliff above. All was terror, confusion and dismay. A captain of the Fifteenth Massachusetts at one moment charged gallantly up the hill, leading two companies, who still had their arms, against the pursuing foe. A moment later, and the same officer, perceiving the hopelessness of the situation, waved a white handkerchief, and surrendered the main body of his regiment.

WAR DEFARMENT, WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.

General: It is my duty to lay before the President your letter of yesterday asking to be released under the recent act of Congress. In separating from you, I can not refrain from expressing my deep regret that your health, shattered by long service and repeated wounds received in your country's defense, render it necessary for you to retire from your high official position at this momentous period of our history. Although you are not to remain in active service, I yet hope that while I continue in charge of this Department over which I now preside I shall at times be permitted to avail myself of the benefit of your counsels and sage experience. It has been my good fortune to enjoy a personal acquaintance with you for over thirty years, and the pleasant relations of that long time have been greatly strengthened by your cordial and entire co-operation in all the great undertakings which have occupied the Department and convulsed the country for the last six months. In parting from you I can only express the hope that a merciful Providence, which has protected you amids so man't trals, will improve your health and continue your life long after the recent act of Congress.
